

Quick Reference Guide – Distributing Courses Through Your Firm's LMS

The information provided in this document is intended to provide a quick guide for CE administrators to acquire a license to FLEX courses on their firm's own learning management system (LMS).

For delivery via Firm LMS

To gain access to the Financial Learning Experience (FLEX) dashboard within the FINRA Gateway, please contact your firm's Super Account Administrator (SAA). They can grant you the entitlement role for FLEX. When editing entitlements, FLEX is the last privilege available to select on the list.

SAA can assign the entitlement for "Select and Purchase Content" for FLEX by checking the box for "User" and/or "Admin."

Types of entitlement roles:

- User: Can select and purchase content
- Admin: Can grant access and create accounts, but not select and purchase content

Next on the screen you will select your license type: library or course. The license type determines how your firm will be billed for course consumption. A calculator is provided to allow you to evaluate which license would be most appropriate for your firm based on how many users and courses will be assigned to each user. The calculator will reflect the difference in price for each of the two types of licenses based on your entered criteria.

After submitting, the FLEX dashboard will initially reflect a status of "Provisioning" while the firm account is being set up.

After a few minutes, you should refresh the page and the status will be updated to "Available" and two files will now be accessible for download: Metadata file and Dispatch file. You will need both files to upload the FLEX courses to your firm's own LMS.

The "Preview Catalog" button will take you to the FLEX catalog to preview courses. Your subscription is now active.
