To whom it may concern,

Please keep leveraged ETFs available to all investors.

I use various leveraged ETFs as a critical part of my retirement investing plan, as well as a critical part of my after-tax investing strategy. I have done so for several years with good success. I do NOT engage in reckless trading practices. I understand the effect of daily magnification of an index's price volatility, and I use this magnification to my financial advantage with my investing strategy.

I do not wish to have a third party determining my capability of properly trading these funds, or be capable of restricting me from buying them.

Thank you,
Kurt Jordens
